

WebSite Changes Nov 06

Hi folks,

Just to let you all know that we will be updating the website over the coming few weeks.

Initially we will be updating and moving the forum to a subdomain (now ready!):
<http://www.forum.familyhistory.uk.com>

Things are being added all the time. On the forum we have Zoints - the community of communities.

The software is to be changed to VBulletin (one of the best, if not the best!). Don't worry, all the original forum posts and threads will be converted and imported to the new forum, together with all your own information. Please go to your User CP to update it and ensure the details are correct.

The next step will be to overall and update the main website (which may take a few weeks). Over this period the login and register module will only be on the forum.

We will keep you all informed of the updates as we go on.

If you have any questions or have any issues, please contact us directly.

Many thanks to you all,
